

Being in the military, it is frustrating for all of us sports fans not being able to view our hometown professional teams on satellite TV systems. To view our teams, we have to pay $150+ for a sports package. Why can't military get service based on their hometown and not on their place of military duty? Or, at least, why can't the satellite TV company's offer a cheaper package "per-team"? This would be a definite moral booster for us sports fans who are serving our country.
